Legal Sector Internship Program 2010/11

Applications close 16 April

About the program
The legal sector internship program is an exciting opportunity for law students to gain exposure to the broader legal sector, particularly in legal policy and related areas.

The internship takes place over 20 days during university holidays or by arrangement during the semester. Students are placed with organisations that range from government departments and the courts to advocacy groups and community legal centres.

Interns will gain a greater understanding of the range of careers available to them outside the traditional practitioner roles.

For more information on participating organisations and the types of projects offered, see our website.

The internship cannot be used as credit towards university studies.

Am I eligible to apply?
In order to apply you must be a current student at a Victorian university law faculty undertaking either an undergraduate law degree or a juris doctorate.

Preference will be given to students who are in their penultimate year of studies.

How do I apply?
To view full details of the application process go to: www.victorialawfoundation.org.au

Applications close Friday 16 April 2010. Interviews are conducted early May.

A decision will be made in early June for both mid-year and summer placements.
